

Once upon a time there was a teen named Will. He lived with his mother, father, and little brother.

There was a teen named Will and he was 17 years old.

Will lived in a normal ~~man~~ 2-story house with mother father and brother.

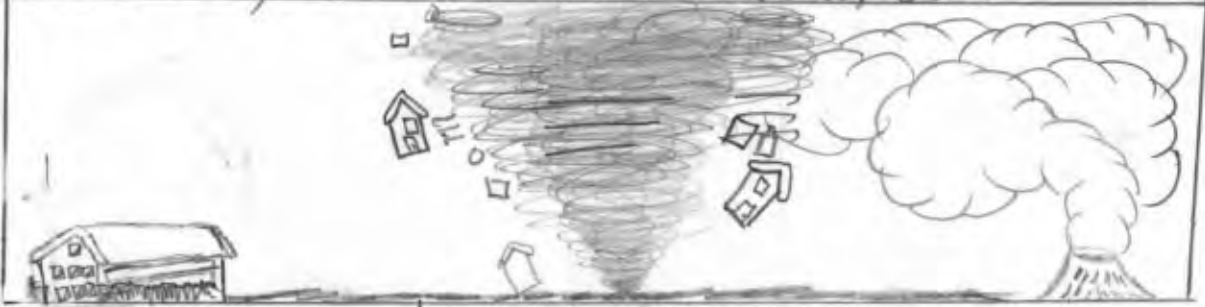

Everyday Will will go on his computer searching random stuff and has no life whatsoever.

Then one day he saw an advertisement that said there was a Tornado.

Until a magical tornado appeared out of nowhere well from a volcano about 5 miles away. We could drive there. And it's extremely slow.

The neighbors warned all the nearby people to Run! SCRAM!

The family decided to ask the old man that was standing around in the streets.

Will has to travel through the suburbs

What do we do?!

Say it please Will

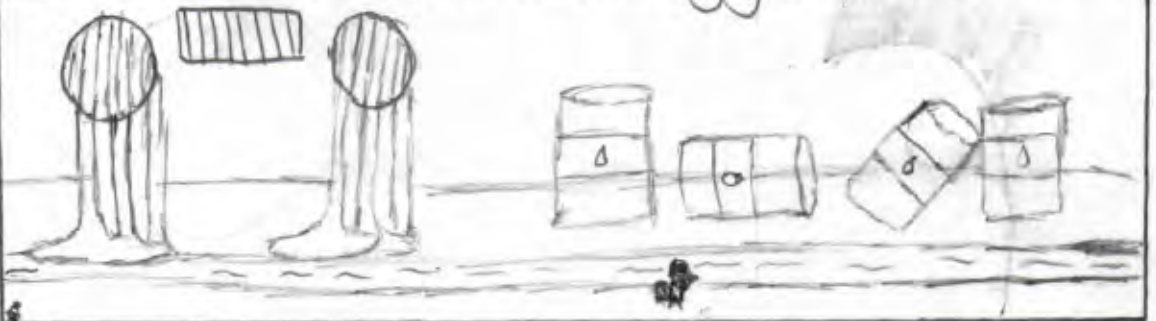

Fine I will gain experience, and tranquility I will not fight

They continued their journey through the Suburbans along with his dad

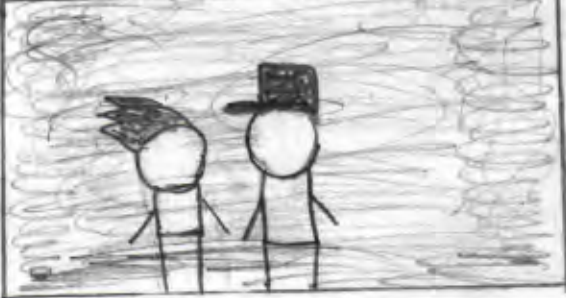

The Suburbans were full of gigantic cans of acid

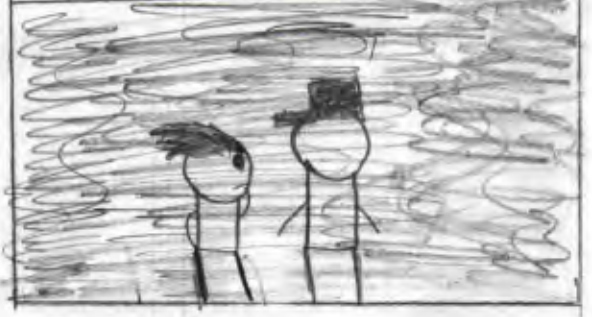

This was certainly a strange place and unpleasant and also uncomfortable.
It was a long corridor of huge tornadoes in two lines leading up to the gate.

Two of the tornadoes extended and made a human resistant. We decide not to touch. The tornadoes said

What is my riddles answer! Is there another way we can enter? asked Will. Or you can say the first letter of our masters name!

K! answered Will's dad. Come at the tornado responded. You can go on now. "Ok dad lets run, because this place is creepy."

"Oh cmon another one!" Will complained. "Either way we have to" dad replied.

If you need what the last tornado said then answer it, related the wind. "Hm the shape of this gate!" "U!" replied Will's dad.

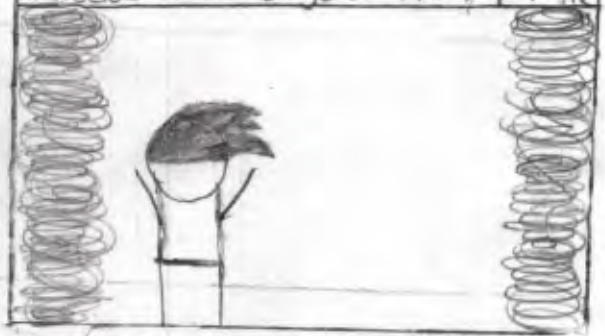

Ok I'm sick and tired of the hair blowing and ruining my hair!

"L! Will said impatiently. "Well I'll be damned." said Will's dad. "You got the answer right + before he started talking or giving him a..."

"You are correct!" said the tornado. "You may now go right on to the next one!" Will said happily. Will's dad said "You go on when you see the..."

"Last gate I'll be there in a flash!" "Sure dad!" Will replied. "KULKAN!"

"I guess you can go straight into the gate you have said all the letters!" said the tornado confused and surprised. Will's dad called.

